

Environmental Credits: Conservation Applications and Incentives

in conjunction with the Society for International Development, DC Chapter

Wednesday, February 11, 2004
9:00 am to 12:00 pm

Session Purpose:

Explore how environmental credits and other market-based incentives are working to protect and restore biodiversity and habitats domestically and internationally.

Speakers:

Tia Nelson, Director, Global Climate Change Initiative, The Nature Conservancy;
Sandra Brown, Sr. Program Officer, Ecosystem Services, Winrock International;
Benoit Basquet, Sr. Natural Resources Specialist for Carbon Finance, The World Bank;
Robert Bonnie, Managing Director, Center for Conservation Incentives, Environmental Defense; and John O. Niles, Project Manager, the Climate, Community and Biodiversity Alliance

Location:

USDA Forest Service
The Yates Building, Second Floor Training Room
201 14th Street SW (corner of 14th Street and Independence, next to Holocaust Museum)
Washington, DC

No reservations required.

Security Measures in Place. Valid identification required for entry

Contacts:

Mark Colisimo Natural Resource Conservation Service, 301-504-2195
Kheryn Klubnikin USDA Forest Service, Research and Development, 703-605-5288