NEW UTAH NRCS EMPLOYEES ... welcome

Two new employees recently began service at Utah NRCS.

Kimberly Burr is the new programs management specialist in the State Office, working under the direction of the assistant state conservationist for programs. She will handle CSP, payment scheduling issues, state ranking tools, equitable relief and appeals coordination. She can be reached at 801-524-4561. Prior to moving to Utah, Kimberly was a supervisory district conservationist in Glacier County, Montana, for the past 1 ½ years. Prior to that she was a planner for 8 ½ years in two locations in Texas, her home state. She obtained a bachelor's and master's degree in agriculture from Tarleton State University in Texas and has a son who is a high school senior.

Jason Hanson is a new soil conservationist in the Panguitch Field Office. He began working for NRCS following his 2011 graduation from North Dakota State University in Fargo with a bachelor's degree in natural resources management. He was detailed as a designated conservationist for wetland and HEL compliance for three counties, where he led one of the teams. He and his fiancé, Arielle, moved to Cedar City in September and are looking forward to learning new things and becoming acquainted with the people of Utah. They are both from the small town of Mayville, ND, where their families still reside. He can be contacted at 435-676-8021 x105 or by email at Jason.H.Hanson@ut.usda.gov.
