SAGE GROUSE INITIATIVE HAS NEW WEB SITE

The NRCS Sage Grouse Initiative (SGI) has created a new Web site to help get the word out about this Western Region Conservation Initiative, of which Utah is a part. View the new site at <http://sagegrouseinitiative.com/>.

SGI Coordinator Tim Griffiths recommends you check out some of these highlights when visiting the site:

- View the new SGI video collection, which describes the benefits of the program from the rancher's point of view.
- A photo gallery and success stories lets you learn about some of the work being accomplished.
- Learn more about funding opportunities, which includes links to the participating states (including Utah).
- If you have a success story to share, contact NRCS Public Affairs Specialist Ron Francis or email the story directly to info@sagegrouseinitiative.com.
