Being a Responsible Citizen

Suggested Grade Level: First grade

Materials

- The book, The Trash in Chigger County, by Amanda Robertson
- Paper for each child
- Pencils
- Whiteboard and markers

GLEs

- Social Studies-Principles of Constitutional Democracy-B. List the rights and responsibilities of citizens.
- Math-Data and Probability 1A-Pose questions and gather data about themselves and their surroundings.
- Communication Arts-Develop and apply effective listening skills and strategies 1A-Listen for enjoyment, for information, and for simple directions to follow.
- Communication Arts-Develop and apply effective speaking skills and strategies for various audiences and purposes 2A-Speak clearly when sharing ideas and asking questions in small and large groups.
- Science-Scientific Inquiry-1A-Post questions about objects, materials, organisms, and events.
- Science-Scientific Inquiry-1D-Communicate simple procedures and results of investigations and explanations through: oral presentations, drawings and maps, data tables, graphs, and writings.

Measurable Objective

After listening to The Trash in Chigger County, the students will be able to list five ways in which they can be a responsible citizen and help their community.
Anticipatory Set

1. Read The Trash in Chigger County with the children.
2. Discuss with the children what it means to be a good citizen and what the characters did that were not characteristic of a responsible citizen.
3. Have students take turns in the circle to tell ways they can be a good citizen.
4. Write the characteristics the children give on the board as they share.
5. Describe how everyone has a responsibility and their choices can affect everyone around them.

Instructional Input

1. Prior Knowledge: In order to complete this task, students should have the prerequisite skills of writing and reading.
2. Materials: Listed above
3. Procedure:
   - The teacher will give examples of how people can be responsible citizens.
   - Have the children discuss what it means to be a responsible citizen.
   - Give each child paper to write ways they can be responsible citizens.

Modeling

Model what it means to be a responsible citizen.

Check for Understanding

- After modeling examples of how to be a responsible citizen, ask the students questions like, “What other things can you think of?”
- Also ask questions to see if students can decide if an action is responsible or not, such as, “Would leaving trash on the ground be a way to be a responsible citizen?”
• While students are working with their partner, circle the room to make sure that students understand the instructions.

Guided Practice

• See anticipatory set.

Independent Practice

• Have each student complete a writing piece listing five ways they can be a responsible citizen.

Closure

• After completing their writing, ask students to go around the room and share what their ideas were.
• Discuss how the students’ ideas would affect others.

Evaluation

• Evaluate the completed writing to see if the students were able to list at least five ways they can be a responsible citizen.

Lesson Plan compiled by Hilary Collier, an Earth Team Volunteer and Early Childhood Education student at Missouri State University, Springfield, MO.

May 2010