

Careers in NRCS

Soil Conservationist | Civil or Agricultural Engineer | Soil Scientist | Rangeland Management

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is a U.S. Department of Agriculture agency whose mission is to provide conservation planning assistance to local soil and water conservation districts and private landowners.

For more information:
(505)761-4400

Natural Resources Conservation Service 6200 Jefferson NE Albuquerque, NM 87109

www.nm.nrcs.usda.gov

RCS is looking for candidates that upon completion of a degree will qualify for:

Range Management Positions

18 semester hours in range management courses

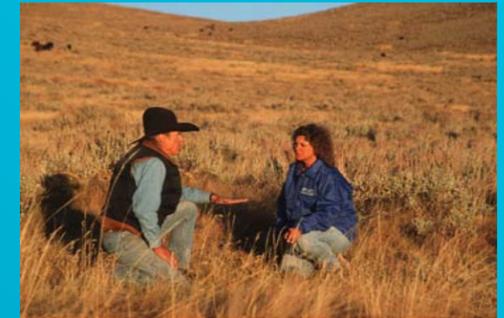

15 semester hours in plant, animal, and soil sciences

9 semester hours in resource management

Soil Conservationist Positions

30 hours in natural resources or agricultural field with 12 hours in soils and crops or plant science

The USDA is an equal opportunity provider and employer.

Soil Scientist Positions

30 hours in biological, physical, or earth science and 15 hours in subjects like soil genesis, pedology, soil chemistry, and soil physics, and soil fertility

Civil or Agricultural Engineering Positions

Completion of degree requirements and associated work assignments