

Longleaf Pine Initiative (LLPI) in Texas Conservation Practice “Buffet”

There are lots of conservation practice options to choose from in the LLPI suite of Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) practices. Think of it as a “Conservation Practice Buffet” table and you can pick and choose which ones work best for your operation. To be eligible for the program, you have to pick at least one core practice as your “main entree” and then one or more supporting practices as your “side dishes.”

LLPI CORE PRACTICES

(at least one is required to address an identified resource concern, more are available)

Prescribed Burning

Tree Establishment

Restoration and Management of Rare & Declining Habitats

Forest Stand Improvement

LLPI has a lot to offer producers. NRCS staff can help you break it all down into bite size pieces that are easy to manage and implement. Ask your NRCS representative about other core practices that might help you meet your operational goals.

LLPI SUPPORTING PRACTICES (more are available)

Conservation Cover

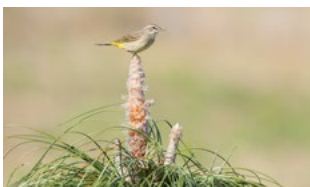

Silvopasture Establishment

Fire Break

Wetland Wildlife Habitat

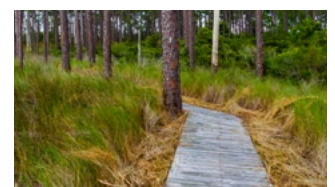

Upland Wildlife Habitat Management

Early Successional Habitat Development

Structures for Wildlife

Forest Trails and Landings
