PUBLIC SERVICE RECOGNITION WEEK

Thank You

NRCS Employees Make the Difference

Helping People Help the Land

USDA is an equal opportunity provider, employer, and lender.

From the State Conservationist

This week has been dedicated to making sure public servants across the country get the recognition they deserve. That's because May 6–May 12, 2018, is Public Service Recognition Week—an annual celebration of the men and women who serve the United States as federal, state, county and local government employees.

One of the great joys of being state conservationist for me, is the honor of serving with dedicated conservationists and public servants who make remarkable contributions to our nation and our state every day. I have seen you deliver amazing successes for our producers and I am always proud of your “can-do” spirit to provide the best customer service. You won't hesitate to go the extra mile. It is that generous spirit of “service” that truly characterizes the men and women who sustain the Natural Resources Conservation Service's (NRCS) rich legacy.

We are here to serve the public every day. I applaud your commitment as a public servant, and I am proud and blessed to be a part of such an outstanding team here at NRCS. I hope others will take the time to celebrate and recognize your great work, not only during Public Service Recognition Week, but every week of the year.

It is for this reason that I am especially gratified to highlight NRCS's commitment to public service and how our employees—each one of you—meet our obligations to our customers and our partners, not just during this special week, but every day.

I would like to use the week as a time to honor employee achievements. Last month, during their area meetings, the three assistant state conservationists for field operations presented Performance Service Recognition Awards and Incentives for Fiscal Year 2017 in the following categories:

- The Field Service Center (FSC) with the Least Number of Expiring Contracts within 120 days over the fiscal year (excluding Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) contracts that are certified).
- The FSC with the best Practice Implementation Rate over the fiscal year.
- The FSC with the best/most innovative Outreach/Partnership Activity over the fiscal year.
- The FSC with the best Contract Implementation Rate over the fiscal year.
- The FSC with the best Success Stories/ Articles Published over the fiscal year.
- The Field Service Team of the Year recognized as the team with the Best Overall Performance compiled from the above listed categories and other key performance metrics used at managements discretion.
- Other Team Awards

The next few pages will show the awardees in each of the three areas. Congratulations again to all.

Whether you recently came on board with NRCS, or you are a career employee who has dedicated your life to agriculture, I am deeply grateful for your commitment to conservation. At work, at home, and in the community, you are role models of service. You're helping make government better for everyone, every day.

Thank you Arkansas NRCS!

Mike Sullivan, State Conservationist

Northwest Area (NW) Awardees

I would like to recognize each employee for their extraordinary public service. Many employees engage with landowners and local, federal and state governments on a daily basis. This does not account for the 100 plus meetings, training sessions, webinars, and deadlines that are embarked upon by employees. This level of dedicated service is commendable. On behalf of thousands of farmers and myself who have benefited from your public service, please accept my heartfelt Thank You. Not only have you all set the all time record for the NW Area but you have immeasurably enriched our communities.

Employees are and will always be our greatest asset. Your abilities and contributions are an important key to the success of our entire agency.

Again, thank you for your continued Public Service.
