Yatahey! Greetings from the Navajo Nation.

My name is Glenda Davis, the newly appointed tribal representative to the USDA Secretary's Advisory Committee on Animal Health (SACAH), as of July 24, 2015. I wanted to introduce myself. I am of the Water's Edge Clan, Born for the Salt People and presently reside in Sawmill, AZ (Navajo Nation), born and raised on the Navajo Nation with over 30 years of experience in animal health, ranching and tribal veterinary services.

My appointment to SACAH as a tribal representative is to bring forward the tribal perspectives on USDA strategies, policies and programs to prevent, control and/or eradicate animal health diseases. I would like to understand your concerns on public health, livestock economy and animal health issues. In addition, under this appointment, I would like to express your voice within this animal health forum, to communicate the tribal viewpoint and concerns.

Your communication will assist me in my role as the tribal representative. I can be reach my email set up specifically for SACAH at sacah.tribalrep@yahoo.com
